4. Cut and clean the peppers from the seeds.
5. Stuff the peppers with the mixture
6. Add a little water and oil to the pan and bake in the oven.

„Baked new potatoes“

You need:

- 0.75–1 kg of small new potatoes
- 1-2 tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil
- Salt
- black peppercorns
- 2 cloves of garlic
- 1 sprig of rosemary
- 2–3 sprigs of thyme

How to prepare:

1. Clean the potatoes and dry them on a dry cloth.
2. Line the baking tray with baking paper.
3. If desired, finely chop the garlic, shake it in a bowl and mix it with oil. Otherwise use only oil.
4. Heat the oven to 220 degrees.
5. Cut the dried potatoes into halves, the larger tubers into quarters.
6. Toss the sliced potatoes into a bowl with (garlic) oil. Season the potatoes with salt and, if desired, with freshly ground pepper and mix well.
7. Put the potatoes into a baking tray and place it in a heated oven for 35 - 40 minutes. Meanwhile, mix the potatoes twice.

„Mint syrup“

You need:

- 150 g of freshly picked mint of any kind
- 2 l of water (you can add 3 dl more)
- 2 kg of sugar
- 70 g lemons
- 2 lemons

How to prepare:

1. Place 3 bottles of 1 l each with stoppers on a rack in the oven for 10 minutes at 110 degrees (heat the oven beforehand) to destroy most of the bacteria.
2. Boil the water, set it aside and sprinkle sugar and lemon juice into it. Stir until both are completely dissolved. The boiling sugar solution must cool down a little (because of the essential oils in the mint).
3. During this time, cut the mint with a knife (if necessary, wash it beforehand). Also cut the lemons into slices.
4. First put sliced mint in warm water, spread lemon slices over the mint.
5. Cover and leave for 24 hours, preferably in a cool place.
6. After 24 hours have passed, first remove the mint from the liquid, which can be squeezed through cheesecloth.
7. Then place a funnel on the clean bottles and put a thick strainer on it and pour the syrup into them and cover with corks.

„Spruce tops syrup“

You need:

- 200 – 250 g spruce tops
- 300 – 350 g white sugar/crystallized honey (flower or maple)

How to prepare:

1. Wash the glass jar well under running water and wipe it well. We use one with a thread so that we can then close it well.
2. At the bottom of the glass, first place the spruce tops, about two fingers thick (the bottom layer should be thicker so that the sugar does not reach the bottom, as it would harden), then add two to three tablespoons of sugar or a layer about one finger thick. We repeat the process. (It is also important not to press the layers when loading!)
3. After filling the jar, always finish the layers with sugar. Close the jar tightly.
4. Place the jar on a windowsill in the sun for about 40 days.
5. When the sugar melts, strain it all into a dark bottle using a strainer.
6. Store the syrup in the refrigerator. It can also be added to tea instead of sugar.

Tip: If you want to prepare an even better syrup, replace the sugar with crystallized honey (flower or maple), which will enrich the medicinal preparation with vitamins, enzymes, minerals and amino acids.

The home pharmacy has had syrup from spruce tops from ages ago, as it effectively relieves coughs, helps with colds, accelerates the prevention of mucous membranes in the respiratory tract, and at the same time disinfects, restores and strengthens it. The tops contain a veritable treasure trove of vitamin C, which strengthens the effect, they also behave with medicinal agents that purify the blood and prevents the bleeding of gums.

The tops are harvested in the spring, from May to June, but weather conditions must also be taken into account. It is best to pick the tops when the weather has been nice and sunny for several days. Small tops are best, even those that are still almost closed.
